VISIT BALTIMORE THIS SUMMER...
the "City of Tradition and Progress"

Whatever your interest—you can satisfy it in Baltimore! If you have a flair for the quaint and unusual; if you're interested in science and industry; or if sports and recreation is the object of your quest; or if you're interested in history and education, Baltimore can provide all in ample measure.

Perhaps Baltimore's first claim to historic fame is Fort McHenry, birthplace of our National Anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner". Here Francis Scott Key watched "by the dawn's early light" his country's flag still proudly flying over the ramparts. Inspired by this sight, the poet penned the words on the back of an old letter. The original manuscript is preserved and visitors will want to see it in the Walters Art Gallery. Visitors will also want to see the statue erected to Francis Scott Key in Baltimore.

One cannot think of Baltimore without thinking of it as a port, through which moves the colorful export and import commerce of the world . . . modern liners, freighters, tankers and picturesque deep sea sailing vessels . . . one of the great harbors of the world; forty miles of deep water frontage. Nearby is Chesapeake Bay, aptly described as the "Little Mediterranean of America", is the home of delectable sea food. Fish of almost every variety, oysters, crabs, and diamond-backed terrapin are caught in the waters of the Chesapeake, providing boundless sport for those who fish.

Health is one of the great pursuits of life, and no one would think of a visit to Baltimore without a visit to John Hopkins Hospital and Medical School. Over 1,600 patients from the immediate vicinity and from far corners of the globe are treated daily at this immense, internationally-famed Hospital. Nearby is picturesque Annapolis, the most perfectly preserved colonial city in America. Annapolis is the home of the United States Naval Academy.

And of course, you'll find the friendly little Toddle House there to greet you and serve you.

JUST CAN'T BE BEAT

Frank: When you proposed to her, I suppose she said: "This is so sudden!"

Jack: No, she was honest and said: "The suspense has been terrible."

Romantic Suitor:—I would lay the world at your feet.

Gladys:—I wouldn't care for it, in its present mussed up condition.

Mrs. Gadder—I should loved to have gone to Maine or Canada during the hot summer, and I'd have gone except for one thing.

Mrs. Sniff—Your husband didn't want you to go, I suppose?

That's just the trouble. He was so anxious for me to go that I was suspicious.

"Let's kiss and make up," said he.

"O. K." said she.

She got the kiss—and he, the make up.

Salesman—When are you going to pay for that electric washer I sold you?

Mrs. Pryce—Pay for it? Why you swore to me that it would pay for itself.

Mrs. Nagger—John, is everything shut up for the night?

John—That depends on you; everything else is.

Gestapo—Buck up, old man. Think of it, all your ancestors have died fighting.

Conscript—That's just what I'm thinking about.
